Let's Start!

Who are you calling old?

Learning Outcome

Describe routines and regular activities in a wider range of social and work contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about staying healthy.
- I can talk about people's habits.
- I can offer advice and solutions.

Ask your partner:

- Who is the oldest person that you know?
- How does this person lead or not lead a healthy, active life?

Let's Explore!

Finding longevity!

* "Longevity" is another way to say long life.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

In 1997, the world's oldest person died in Arles, France. Jeanne Calment was 122 years old. Until she was 100, Jeanne rode her bicycle through the streets of Arles. She took energetic walks, and ate more than two pounds of chocolate a week. She did not quit smoking until the age of 117.

When Ms. Calment was 120, I asked her for any advice she could give me towards living a long active life. She said I should eat well. She stated that I ought to drink wine to help me relax. She thought I should eat dark chocolate too! Oh, and I had better not smoke, because the air is no longer clean.

Jeanne said I had better bicycle. Exercise keeps your body strong. When I said I would prefer to walk, she laughed. You need to laugh too, she added. It releases stress. Of course, you had better find someone to love. Love makes life better. Companionship is essential!

Learning Points

Healthy Habits

Developing healthy habits and avoiding unhealthy ones can help you live longer.

Healthy habits include:

- Eating fruits and vegetables
- Exercising
- Oral hygiene or brushing your teeth
- Getting medical check-ups
- Not smoking
- Getting enough sleep

These healthy habits are generally recommended by physicians who tell you what is advisable using: ought to, had better, should and need to.

Examples:

- You had better quit smoking.
- You ought to get regular medical checkups.

Offering Health Advice and Solutions

You can offer advice and solutions to people on how to improve their health or longevity.

Remember to offer advice politely and to use the modals could, should or might to propose a solution:

- You should ...
- You need to ...
- You ought to ... (strong request)
- You had better ... (strong request)

Offering Advice and Solutions

She said I should eat well.

She stated that I ought to drink wine to help me relax.

I'd better cycle, because it is good way to get some exercise.

You need to laugh too, she added. It releases stress.
